

QUESTION NO: 1

Which of the following configuration files can you view while comparing archives in Inventory Manager?

- A. All archived configuration files
- B. Only files in which a difference in configurations is found
- C. All archived database files
- D. A and C

Answer: B

QUESTION NO: 2

What benefits are gained with SNMPv3?

- A. Better error codes
- B. Encrypted messages
- C. Fast table retrieval
- D. All of the above

Answer: D

QUESTION NO: 3

Which RMON groups are accessible from the Device Manager?

- A. Alarm and Event
- B. Host and Matrix
- C. Statistics and History
- D. Filter and Capture

Answer: C

QUESTION NO: 4

Which of the following actions can Atlas Console initiate when certain alarms, events or traps occur on the network?

- A. Send an e-mail notification and then shut down Atlas Console
- B. Send an e-mail notification or run a program
- C. Write the event log to an HTML file for web-based viewing

- D. Run a program or shut down Atlas Console
- E. A and C only

Answer: B

QUESTION NO: 5

The Firmware Upgrade Wizard allows you to enter a reset delay time for devices that support timed reset. How can you reset devices that do not support timed reset?

- A. You cannot reset devices that do not support timed reset.
- B. After selecting the devices in the table, click Start to initiate manual resets.
- C. It is necessary to walk to the device to initiate a reset.
- D. After closing the Firmware Upgrade Wizard, you open the Manual Device Reset Wizard.

Answer: B

QUESTION NO: 6

Device Manager provides all of the following, EXCEPT

- A. Graphic representation of a device
- B. Configuration file upload/download
- C. System level configuration
- D. Broadcast Suppression configuration

Answer: C

QUESTION NO: 7

With SNMPv3, the message is encrypted

- A. to prevent disclosure of sensitive information while en route
- B. to make sure the user has permission to access the device
- C. to verify the message was not modified en route
- D. to read or to modify subsets of the target data
- E. Both A and C

Answer: A